5th Annual Global Health Students and Young Professionals Summit
Sunday, November 18th, 2018
Toronto, ON, Canada

Purpose and Vision

The Global Health Student and Young Professional Summit (GHSYPs Summit) is a student and young professional (SYP) organized pre-conference to the 24th Canadian Conference on Global Health: “Fragile Environments and Global Health: Examining Drivers of Change”.

In collaboration with the Canadian Society for International Health (CSIH) and Canadian Coalition for Global Health Research (CCGHR), we are pleased to present the 5th Annual GHSYPs Summit: Becoming Change Agents in Global Health.

The 5th iteration of the GHSYPs Summit seeks to foster a transformative learning environment by encouraging attendees in becoming critical, reflective and lifelong learners. The theme of this summit, Becoming Change Agents in Global Health, aims to explore and evaluate change at the individual, organizational, and systemic levels.

As such, the aim of the GHSYPs Summit is three-fold:

- I. To create change within your circle of influence
 - A. This aim will be achieved by:
 1. Promoting advocacy and leadership skills
 2. Understanding the role and types of activism, media and messaging in global health
 3. Using media and research to develop your knowledge translation and dissemination skills
 4. Connecting attendees with resources to advance their professional development
- II. To engage change through transdisciplinary collaboration:
 - A. This aim will be achieved by:
 1. Understanding the interdisciplinary and collaborative nature of global health
 2. Understanding the complex interplay between law, politics and governance in shaping global health
 3. Evaluating how the arts and sciences come together when conceptualizing meaningful global health projects and practices
- III. To promote cultural competency and community-based approaches within global health
 - A. This aim will be achieved by:

1. Understanding the holistic framework of 'cultural competency and humility' in the context of vulnerable populations
2. Understanding how to promote local and global community-based practices
3. Understanding privilege and power dynamics in global health spheres

The GHSYPs Summit aims to provide a space for SYPs involved or interested in the global health field. This is the forum for global health SYPs to connect, network, engage, and be inspired. Leading experts as well as outstanding SYPs will question the upcoming global health challenges of our time and current Canadian projects in global health. Participants will also be challenged to think about how to best leverage their skills, seek out professional development opportunities, and become agents of change in an ever diversifying and multidisciplinary global health sphere.

Who We Are

The GHSYPs Summit is organized by a diverse group of passionate SYPs from across the country. The SYP story started over many coffees, as many stories start. There is a need, a demand, a group of talented and driven individuals who are knocking at the door. And they are asking for a chance. A chance to sit at the table. A chance to contribute. A chance to put their knowledge to work. A chance to make a difference in global health. We are these people.

The group of people we consider SYPs are not only eager to learn, but fierce contributors to society and passionately involved in the world around them. SYPs are the movers and shakers of the next century, not necessarily young, but young in their career, and since it is common for individuals to change careers multiple times, being a young professional is not.

Students and Young Professionals (SYPs)

"A Student or Young Professional (SYP) is someone who is enrolled in a post-secondary institution and interested in a field related to global health (GH) or an individual who has recently entered employment in a discipline related to global health. This is understood to include all individuals between 15 and 35 years of age (per UNESCO and African Charter definitions), and is considered by CSIH to be a fluid category that includes persons who are no more than 5 years beyond the completion of their studies." - CSIH

Guiding GHSYPs Summit Principles

In the planning process and collaborative work towards having an engaging summit, we strive to continually maintain and reflect on principles of authentic partnering, inclusion, shared benefits, commitment to the future, responsiveness to causes of inequities, and humility (based on the Canadian Coalition for Global Health Research Principles).

Why We Need You

GHSYPs Summit is a SYP run conference aspiring to reach and connect as many like-minded passionate global health leaders of tomorrow as possible.

We invite your organization to partner with us in our mission to provide an inspiring environment for SYPs in global health to learn. Our partners will support the quality of delivery of the summit, enable greater promotion, smoother operation, and increase general access to the GHSYPs Summit. We hope you see the value in supporting the future generation of health care workers, policy makers, and other professionals. We look forward to working together to mutually benefit from this partnership and hope to strengthen ties between our organizations for many future years to come!
